Qualification levels

The New Zealand Qualifications Framework (NZQF) is divided into 10 levels, and covers a range of qualifications from certificates to doctoral degrees. The levels are based on how complex the learning is.

Design Factory NZ

The Design Factory NZ offers a unique opportunity for students who are excited by possibility, are motivated to act, and are open-minded thinkers - ready to create a brighter future.

The first of its kind in New Zealand, the Design Factory NZ is a co-creation space where Wintec students work alongside industry partners to solve complex, real-world problems.

Students will work in a team with other students from different disciplines across Wintec, as part of a global network of design thinkers.

How does it work?

Over a semester, students are introduced to the industry-partner organisation whose problem they are being tasked to solve. Students work collaboratively in an interdisciplinary team, using a range of Design Thinking and problem-solving skills to develop a solution. Design Factory NZ coaches guide the students to conduct empathy interviews, bring clarity from a range of insights, generate hundreds of possible solutions, rapidly create testable prototypes, and validate their outcomes on people directly affected by the problem.

Students are based in a dedicated Design Factory NZ space at the Wintec City Campus.

Who can apply?

The Design Factory NZ course is currently available to third-year students working towards a degree in Media Arts, Business, IT, Engineering, Social Work, Counselling, or Science. However, enquiries are welcomed from students in any degree. After successfully completing the course, students will gain 30 credits towards their programme of study.
