What is a short course at City?

A SHORT COURSE is an excellent way to gain new expertise, advance your current skills or simply follow a passion.

Our cost-effective courses have been designed to fit around busy lives. Most courses are completed within ten weeks and require a commitment of just two hours, one night a week. We also have a range of Masterclasses that can be completed in as little as one day. You'll meet others in the same boat to keep you motivated and join you on your journey.

At City we believe that learning is a unique experience, which is why all our courses are taught in a classroom environment. Unlike online learning, classes at City are tailored around each individual's circumstances. There are opportunities to ask your tutor questions on a one-to-one basis and to network with – and learn from – others who share your interests and goals. You'll grow in confidence and build skills in an inspiring and supportive environment.

PRITESH PATEL works as a Senior Architect. He is currently studying the French Beginners course at City.

“I am marrying a Swiss girl and her family don’t speak much English so I thought it would be good if I learned the language. The teaching was great and used quite a lot of history and cultural elements.”

See what our tutors have to say

ELLIOTT KING is CEO of digital marketing agency MintTwist and teaches the Strategic Digital Marketing short course at City.

“My course will teach you how to define, communicate and measure your marketing strategy across digital channels. I get a huge amount of satisfaction when I am able to help an attendee to make real differences and improvements within their own organisation or within the work they’re doing.”

Watch our video for more from Elliott and what his students have to say.

Further information

ARE THERE ANY ENTRY REQUIREMENTS?

We do not ask for qualifications or experience to enrol on our courses, only an enthusiasm for learning and a genuine interest in the subject area. If you enrol on a more advanced course, we suggest some level of prior knowledge so that you can keep up with the teaching (see specific course webpages for more information).

ARE THE SHORT COURSES AT CITY ACCREDITED?

There is no formal assessment and no qualification is issued at the end of the course but you are given an official City, University of London short courses certificate on completion of the course.

WHEN DOES LEARNING TAKE PLACE?

Most short courses at City run across three terms – autumn, spring and summer – and consist of 10 two-hour classes held once a week. Some courses include weekend classes or take place entirely at weekends.

WHAT LEVEL ARE COURSES?

City short courses are taught at a range of levels, from introductory to advanced, allowing you to continue your progress over a period of several terms if you wish. See individual course pages for more information.

HOW DO I ENROL?

Enrolling on a short course at City couldn't be easier – simply register and pay online via the course page. We take all course bookings on a first-come, first-served basis. Popular courses fill up quickly, so we advise booking early to secure your place.

More questions are answered on our FAQs webpage CITY.AC.UK/SHORT-COURSES/FAQS or contact a member of the Short Courses team who will be happy to advise you.
