PROFESSIONAL YEAR PROGRAM

Information Technology

The Professional Year (PY) Program in ICT provides international ICT graduates from Australian tertiary institutions the practical job skills and training needed to enhance their career prospects in Australia. A practical pathway from university to employment, the PY Program ensures that graduates are job-ready for today's Industry requirements. Completion of this program may also provide the PY graduate with five points under an eligible skilled occupation - ANZSCO Code - as specified by the Department of Home Affairs.

The Australian Computer Society (ACS), as the professional association for the IT industry, was authorised by the Australian Federal Government to create and deliver a work readiness program that would enhance the employment opportunities for international graduate participants in ICT and assist in addressing Australia's ICT skills shortages in nominated occupations.

QIBA is one of a few Australian government RTOs accredited by the Australian Computer Society (ACS) to deliver the Professional Year Program for ICT Graduates. QIBA has been a leader in the market as a Professional Year Program Provider since 2011.

QIBA is highly committed to a 'continual improvement' approach for the management, delivery, support, communication and resources within the Professional Year Program.

The QIBA Professional Year facilitator is handpicked for their business and industry expertise and for their 'mentoring' ability. PYear Candidates are treated as 'employees in induction'. They are not students studying for another qualification. Our Facilitators are a valuable asset in the transition of PY candidates from study and survival work to employment in professional roles.

QIBA currently deliver the Professional Year Program in ICT from 5 Locations across Australia:

- Brisbane
- Canberra
- Hobart
- Sydney
- Gold Coast

- Self-Sourced Placements – an ICT internship obtained by the candidate but is not their own employment
- Remote Placements – an ICT placement located >200Kms or 2 hours travel time from the Intern's home
- Regional Placements – a placement undertaken in another state/region in which QIBA does not deliver but is obtained through a candidate's own employment only.

During the Internship component the Intern will undertake the Professional Environments (PE) Online course with the ACS. During this course the Intern will complete a self-evaluation using the SFIA Framework (Skills Framework for the Information Age) to help provide guidance and support in their own professional development plans. This will in turn, allow them to align their internship experience to help develop relevant skills essential to their role.

QIBA Interns gain relevant entry-level ICT experience from internship placements sourced from a diverse range of professional companies and organisations.

QIBA enjoys meeting the expectations of its interns by sourcing high quality placements and providing a pathway to the next stage in their journey towards a professional career.

The 3-month internship component of the Professional Year Program provides an invaluable opportunity for PY participants to demonstrate and develop the skills they gained through their class component, and allow host companies to provide feedback based on the skills needed to succeed in the workplace. It gives industry and business the opportunity to enrich the PY interns' learning experiences and increase the number of work-ready graduates.

The internship also provides PY candidates the opportunity to develop skills and knowledge appropriate to their ICT area of interest or specialisation and allows them to reflect upon the development of those skills to enhance their workforce capability and gain exposure to the local labour market.
