2.4. Sightseeing

As a student of our university, you should not miss the opportunity to discover the magnificent and so different faces of Romania: the mountains with their ski slopes, resorts, caves and lakes, the Black Sea, the Danube Delta – a World Heritage and the second largest Delta in Europe - or the ancient Romanian regions: Moldavia with its religious architecture, Oltenia famous for its embroideries and carpets. Maramures, famous for wooden sculptures or Bucovina are proud of their old traditions. The Irish author Bram Stoker based his horror novel Dracula, on the Romanian fifteenth century prince Vlad Dracul. The castle still lies in Romania and is a top tourist attraction. Vlad was also called the Impaler because he would punish people by impaling them!

First time in Bucharest?

Take a visit to the capital! It is worthwhile!

BUCHAREST – The Capital

București is the capital city and the commercial centre of Romania. It is located in the southeast of the country, on the banks of the Dâmbovitza River, with a continental climate, with subtropical influences (average temperatures: -0° C in winter, $+28^{\circ}$ C in summer). First mentioned in 1459, the city became the capital of Romania in 1862. With a population of approximately 3 mil. inhabitants (plus the suburbs), it is the centre of the Romanian business, education, media and cultural events. Nowadays the city is experiencing an economic and cultural boom. The old city center has been restored to a great extent and it is now the most popular place for entertainment and leisure. Bucharest is also recommended for shopping, as the city with the highest number of shopping malls.

Romania is proud to be a full Member of the European Union since 2007.

3.1. History in a nutshell

First mentioned in 1459, the city became the capital of Romania in 1862. The town originated as a minor settlement on shepherd routes. The mythical founder of the first settlement is said to be the shepherd Bucur, from which its name was formed. It became a princely court and capital of Wallachia under Vlad the Impaler in 15th century and from then on developed for the next four centuries as a market town and administrative centre under the domination of the Ottoman Empire. The town was modernised and given a European face under the reign of King Carol I, toward the end of the 19th century, reaching a zenith in terms of glamour and sophistication during the inter-war period. Under the post-war communist regime the city grew in population and became highly industrialised at the expense of its heritage and traditions, suffering immense damage under the communist policies of social engineering and forced industrialisation. The intense economic development of the first decade of the 21st century is now radically transforming Bucharest, setting in motion a new influx of population and economic life.

Universitatea Spiru Haret
Bucharest, Romania

3.2. Contemporary facts

Economy: Bucharest is the economic engine of Romania, a city that concentrates nearly 15% of the country's over 19 million population and produces about 20% of its GDP and a quarter of the industrial output of Romania.

Society: Bucharest acts as a cultural melting pot for the country where people representing communities from all the regions of Romania came to live in search of prosperity. Bucharest is also a multi-ethnic and multicultural centre. For most of its history until the communist period, the town has been very cosmopolitan in its outlook, hosting large and diverse communities such as Jews. The post-communist period marks the new cosmopolitanisation of Bucharest with expatriate workers arriving here and emergence of new immigrant communities such as Arabs, Chinese and Vietnamese people, followed as the economy develops by Indians, Pakistani and Africans.

Culture : Bucharest is the main cultural and educational centre of the country. Its residents benefit from the presence of numerous theatres – a State Jewish Theatre included - a National Opera House, hosting events in international languages as well, an Athaenaeum, cinemas located both in the centre of the city and in the large malls, within their entertainment areas, museums, foreign cultural centres, and libraries. The National Library of Romania has recently been relocated to new and highly modern premises in the city centre, with a splendid view on the Dambovitza river, which crosses the city.

Bucharest is home to most Romanian music bands, of which some enjoy international recognition. The city hosts some of the best electronic music clubs in Europe such as Kristal Glam Club and Studio Martin. Some other notable venues are Gaia, Bamboo, Fratelli, Kulturhaus and Fabrica.

There are a number of cultural festivals in Bucharest throughout the year, among which the one enjoying a special visibility and fame due to its international guests is the George Enescu Festival, named after the most important Romanian composer. Since 2005 Bucharest has its own contemporary art biennale, the Bucharest Biennale.

4. Romanian Educational System

The Romanian Educational System is regulated by the Ministry of National Education (www.edu.ro) and has experienced a deep process of modernisation and reorganisation after the fall of communism. As a result of this modernization and the infusion of European and World Bank funds it

Universitatea Spiru Haret
Bucharest, Romania

nows enjoy a strong infrastructure and a well-established set of competitive educational institutions at all levels.

4.1. Official Organization

The structure of the education system in Romania consists of two main levels:

A. Pre-university education – divided into 5 levels

1. Preschool (or kindergarten) - duration: 3 years (for children aged 3 to 6)
2. Primary / Elementary School – Preparatory grade and grades I-IV (for pupils aged 6 to 10)
3. Secondary school (Gymnasium) - grades V-VIII (for pupils aged 10 to 14)
4. High school / college - grades IX-XII / XIII (for pupils aged 15 to 18 /19) AND Vocational education (school of arts and crafts) for secondary school leavers, as an alternative to comprehensive high schools, for pupils aged 15 to 17 (approximately).
5. Post-secondary education - can last between 2 to 5 years and usually offers a practical qualification (medical nurse, assistant manager, cook, mechanic, etc)

B. Higher education – was reorganized so as to comply with the Bologna process principles, whose purpose is the creation of the European Higher Education Area by making academic degree standards and quality assurance standards more comparable and compatible throughout Europe.

The Romanian higher education system consists of 4 levels:

1. Undergraduate Studies : 3-6 years (3 years for most specializations)
2. Master Studies : 2 years
3. Doctoral Studies : 3 years
4. Lifelong learning (post-graduate courses, continuing education).

Universities

According to the information posted on the website of the Romanian Agency for Quality Assurance in Higher Education, www.aracis.ro, there are 56 accredited public universities, 32 accredited private universities, and 23 institutions enjoying temporary authorization.

Universities enjoy autonomy and admission is according to their own regulations. Most of them take into consideration the average grade in the “Bacalaureat” (high school graduation) exam; they may also require an interview. For fields like foreign languages, architecture, music or physical education, students may sit for an aptitude test.

Just like in the secondary education system, grades in the higher education system range from 1 to 10, where 10 is the highest, and 5 is the lowest pass. At the end of the undergraduate program, students take a final comprehensive exam called “Licenta”. They need to pass oral and written tests in their areas of studies. The higher education diploma is called “Diploma de Licenta”.

4.3. Structure of the academic year

The academic year consists of 2 semesters. The first semester starts on the 1st of October and ends in February, whereas the second semester lasts from the end of February until the end of June. There are four holidays whose dates vary from one year to another: a winter holiday in December, an inter-semester holiday, a spring holiday and a summer holiday.

1st October – opening of the academic year

1st October – last week of January: courses (1st semester)

Last week of January – Mid February: winter session

Intersemester Holidays

Last week of February – 31 May : courses (2nd semester)

June: summer session

5. Spiru Haret University (USH)

5.1. Introduction

The Spiru Haret University was founded on 19th January 1991, as part of the Romania de Măine Foundation. Having as a model the Harvard Foundation and University, the academic staff of our university has initiated, organized and coordinated education and research activities in the spirit of Spiru Haret, the great scholar, reformer and founder of the modern education system in Romania.

Act no. 443 of 5 July 2002, published in the Official Gazette of Romania no. 491 on 9 July 2002, ratified the fact that Spiru Haret University, upon accreditation, is a 'higher education institution, a legal person of private law and public utility, a part of the national system of education'.

Spiru Haret University has adopted the ideals and principles set forth by the Magna Charta Universitatum, ratified in Bologna in 1988, advocating for the transposition, in higher education and scientific research, of the regulations, standards and values voted during the Bologna Process. The University President and Rector signed the Magna Charta Universitatum in Bologna in 2005 and pledged, in the name of the University, to observe and promote academic autonomy, fundamental university values and rights, to effectively react to the challenges entailed by the transition to the knowledge-based society, by the globalization process.

The efforts constantly made by Spiru Haret University in order to secure its integration into the national and European area of scientific research have been steered to building its own strategy of research-development. All of these clearly mirror the present circumstances and define the set of strategic and specific goals of the research-development area, of designing the research-development plan and setting the instruments that are required for its achievement.

Universitatea Spiru Haret
Bucharest, Romania

The University has always carried out various activities to promote its image, to make its performance more visible. The list of such activities includes, but it is not limited to, participation in important national and international events, establishing partnerships, agreements, relations of cooperation in various areas. The above-described brilliantly prove the wide openness of Spiru Haret University to the world, its desire to cooperate at various levels, in the European and international sphere of education and research. Likewise, it represents the expression of the prestige already acquired by our institution, an indisputable proof of its mission of promoting the values of Romanian education, science and culture worldwide.

8. Everyday life

8.1. Food

Romania has had influence from both invaders and neighbors where its traditional cuisine is concerned. Romania's traditional food sees touches of Turkish, Hungarian, Austrian, and other cuisines, but over the years, these dishes have become just as traditional as the oldest Romanian traditional foods.

Typical Dishes:

Romanian traditional foods heavily feature meat. Cabbage rolls (sarmale), sausages, mici, and stews (like tocanita) are popular main dishes. Muschi poiana consists of mushroom- and bacon-stuffed beef in a puree of vegetables and tomato sauce. You can also sample traditional Romanian fish dishes, like the salty, grilled carp called saramura.

Soups, appetizers, side dishes in Romania

Soups - made with or without meat, or made with fish - are usually offered on menus at Romanian restaurants. Zama is a green bean soup with chicken, parsley, and dill. You may also encounter pilaf and moussaka, vegetables prepared in various ways (including stuffed peppers), and polenta.

(source: <http://goeasteurope.about.com/od/romania/p/romanianfood.htm>)

8.2. Shopping

Bucharest's main and most popular shopping areas are the shopping centres and malls (AFI Palace, Sun Plaza, Baneasa Shopping Center etc), as well as B-dul Magheru and - increasingly - Calea Victoriei.

8.3. Cultural life, recreation and fun

Bucharest offers some excellent attractions, and has, in recent years, cultivated a sophisticated, trendy, and modern sensibility that many have come to expect from a European capital. Bucharest has been undergoing major modernization programs in recent years and is still going to continue with these projects in the years to come. Museums, theatres, art galleries, for sophisticated tastes or for student information alternate with clubs, malls, parks, restaurants, pubs for fun. See also <http://wikitravel.org/en/Bucharest> .

We wish you a nice stay and successful studies at USH!
